Dear Charmi Kashyap Upadhyay,

Your application to work in Canada has been initially approved by Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada.

The final decision is made following an examination by an officer in Canada. This officer will determine if you still meet the requirements of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (IRPA), its regulations and any other Canadian legislation. If you meet the requirements, we'll issue you a work permit and allow you to enter Canada.

Please note: As of December 23, 2024, work permits will no longer be provided to flagpolers at a port of entry. Flagpoling occurs when foreign nationals who hold temporary resident status in Canada, leave Canada and, after a visit to the United States or St. Pierre and Miquelon, re-enter Canada to access immigration services at a port of entry. As a result of these changes, you must leave and re-enter Canada from a country other than United States or St. Pierre and Miquelon in order to be examined by a Canada Border Services Agency officer upon your return to Canada to activate and receive your permit.
